alone is of considerable importance especially when we consider that such dynamic features can and sometimes do in a fundamental way modulate psychological functioning If we consider in addition that in certain circumstances these variables have a direct and sometimes decisive effect on the final behavioral outcome it seems obvious that the parameters of physiologically active systems determine a number of important features of complex human behavior According to Pavlov the most important of these is that system comprising central nervous system properties which determine the generation of excitatory and inhibitory processes in the structures of the central nervous system The concept of basic nervous system properties as leading parameters of the psychophysiological organization of individuality seems to be one of the outstanding achievements of the Pavlovian school It provided the framework within which investigators could attempt to determine ex perimentally individual features of behavior and reactivity Engineering Record, Building Record and Sanitary Worship Space Acoustics Mendel Kleiner, David Lloyd Klepper, Rendell R.
