laden cultural phenomenon that has much to teach about the social organization of a neoliberal western modernity Bringing together a variety of interpretive theoretical perspectives including critical disability studies queer and critical race theory and cultural studies the book analyzes the social significance and productive effects of contemporary discourses of autism as these are produced and circulated in the field of autism advocacy Anne McGuire reveals how in the field of autism advocacy autism often appears as an abbreviation its multiple meanings distilled to various red flag warnings in awareness campaigns bulleted biomedical facts in information pamphlets or worrisome statistics in policy reports She analyzes the relationships between these fragmentary enactments of autism and traces their continuities to reveal an underlying powerful and ubiquitous logic of violence that casts autism as a pathological threat that advocacy must work to eliminate Such logic McGuire contends functions to delimit the role of the good autism advocate to one who is positioned against autism Book jacket Experimental Political Science and the Study of Causality Rebecca B. Morton, Kenneth C. Williams, 2010-08-06

Increasingly political scientists use the term experiment or experimental to describe their empirical research One of the primary reasons for doing so is the advantage of experiments in establishing causal inferences In this book Rebecca B Morton and Kenneth C Williams discuss in detail how experiments and experimental reasoning with observational data can help researchers determine causality They explore how control and random assignment mechanisms work examining both the Rubin causal model and the formal theory approaches to causality They also cover general topics in experimentation such as the history of experimentation in political science internal and external validity of experimental research types of experiments field laboratory virtual and survey and how to choose recruit and motivate subjects in experiments They investigate ethical issues in experimentation the process of securing approval from institutional review boards for human subject research and the use of deception in experimentation
