Carleton,2021-06 Fray Francisco Atanasio Dom nguez Award from the Historical Society of New Mexico New Mexico Arizona Book Award Finalist in History For much of the twentieth century modernization did not simply radiate from cities into the hinterlands rather the broad project of modernity and resistance to it has often originated in farm fields at agricultural festivals and in agrarian stories In New Mexico no crops have defined the people and their landscape in the industrial era more than apples cotton and chiles In Fruit Fiber and Fire William R Carleton explores the industrialization of apples cotton and chiles to show how agriculture has affected the culture of twentieth century New Mexico The physical origins the shifting cultural meanings and the environmental and market requirements of these three iconic plants all broadly point to the convergence in New Mexico of larger regions the Mexican North the American Northeast and the American South and the convergence of diverse regional attitudes toward industry in agriculture Through the local stories that represent lives filled with meaningful struggles lessons and successes along with the systems of knowledge in our recent agricultural past Carleton provides a history of the broader culture of farmers and farmworkers In the process seemingly mere marginalia a farmworker s meal a small orchard s advertisement campaign or a long gone chile seed add up to an agricultural past with diverse cultural influences many possible futures and competing visions of how to feed and clothe ourselves that remain relevant as we continue to reimagine the crops of our future
