Livres hebdo, 2009 The Last Orphan Train Mike Lapinski, 2014-10-28 Clint Henley's atonement began on a sultry Chicago night in 1937 when a cherry red Ford coupe eased to the curb at Maxwell Street's infamous Runaway Central George Yustice eyed his prey through the windshield as two frightened young girls edged closer Yustice leaned across the seat and said Hey girls ya wanna But the words died in his throat as the windshield exploded and he gaped at the powerfully built young man axe in hand a berserk look in his eye And Yustice was never seen again Optimists claimed he probably left town in a hurry that night while pessimists smirked that he probably ended up in a nearby rendering vat But Clint wasn't always a raving maniac Once he was innocent and loving a momma's boy But when his mother died the bewildered lad was discarded by a callous stepfather to an orphanage where his life became a nightmare He desperately sought to escape aboard one of the last Orphan Trains headed West even allowed himself to hope for a good family Instead he got a monster And it built in him a seething anger that exploded into a rage so great that he could not forgive himself for the vengeance he'd wrought but God did Orphan Train Trials Rachel Wesson, 2019 Bella Jones and Kathleen Collins are as close as sisters and that's how they want things to stay But fate intervenes Kathleen's brothers have disappeared they traveled from New York on the Orphan Train and nobody has heard from them since She can't shed her gut feeling something awful has happened to them She goes looking for them but is she prepared for what she will find Twins Megan and Eileen Doyle have lost so much already Bella can't let them travel on the Orphan Train alone She must confront her fears and deal with her past Can she keep the girls safe or will they too fall victim to abuse Both Bella and Kathleen are tested in ways they never dreamed possible Will Justice prevail and allow both girls to get their happy ever after Or is the cost simply too high

Children of the Orphan Trains Holly Littlefield, 2001-01-01 Recounts the experiences of abandoned orphaned or homeless children from city orphanages in the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries who were sent out by the trainload to find families that would adopt them or take them as workers Bridie's Daughter Robert Noonan, 2011-07 From 1854 to 1929 more than 200 000 homeless children left New York City on orphan trains to find new lives across the country Some found loving homes others experienced physical and mental abuse Bridie's Daughter brings that world to life in this second novel in Robert Noonan's Orphan Train Trilogy Bridie's Daughter is an eye opening tale that follows four teen aged children who are filled with hope concern and uncertainty as they ride the rails to an unknown future Once the train stops however it's a roll of the dice where they'll each end up Bridie McDonald a wealthy spinster finds in Catherine the daughter she has always wanted Catherine learns to love Bridie and her new elegant home but is concerned about Bridie's relationship with Jack her mentally challenged handyman Though most of the citizens of Newberry Illinois befriend these children some are not so welcoming believing all the orphans from New York City are bastards and should be treated as such Orphan Train James Magnuson, Dorothea Petrie, 1979-12 The Orphan Train Shirley Dummer, 2006-02-01 The Orphan Train John Furia, 1979 Orphan Trains, 1998 Orphan Train James Magnuson, Dorothea G. Petrie, 1978 Orphan Train Magnuson, 1980-05-01 Last Train Home Renée Wendinger, 2014-02-14 LAST TRAIN HOME is an American story about cultural identity and family history set during the nineteenth century at a time when America received an enormous influx of immigrants and a quarter of a million children were sent west from East Coast cities to America's heartland by orphan train The story highlights a little known but historically significant moment in our country's past by tracing the individual journeys of two children Johnny and Sophia to bring about the distinction of these children to find families and homes A true story of friendship and discovery Last Train Home weaves individual riders stories into a powerful tale of upheaval and resilience of second chances and triumph over tribulation building strength of mind and character into an incredible reserve The Orphan Train Movement Charles River Charles River Editors, 2017-01-07 Includes pictures Includes accounts of the Orphan Trains written by kids in the program Includes online resources and a bibliography for further reading The Orphan Trains were needed at the time they happened They were not the best answer but they were the first attempts at finding a practical system Many children that would have died lived to have children and grandchildren It has been calculated that over two million descendants have come from these children The trains gave the children a fighting chance to grow up D Bruce Ayler By the middle of the 19th century New York City's population surpassed the unfathomable number of 1 million people despite its obvious lack of space This was mostly due to the fact that so many immigrants heading to America naturally landed in New York Harbor well before the federal government set up an official immigration system on Ellis Island. At first the city itself set up its own immigration registration center in Castle Garden near the site of the original Fort Amsterdam and naturally many of these immigrants who were arriving with little more than the clothes on their back didn't travel far and thus remained in New York. Of course the addition of so many immigrants and others with less money put strains on the quality of life. Between 1862 and 1872 the number of tenements had risen from 12 000 to 20 000 the number of tenement residents grew from 380 000 to 600 000. One notorious tenement on the East River, Gotham Court, housed 700 people on a 20 by 200 foot lot. Another on the West Side was home incredibly to 3 000 residents who made use of hundreds of privies dug into a fifteen foot wide inner court. Squalid, dark, crowded and dangerous tenement living created dreadful health and social conditions. It would take the efforts of reformers such as Jacob Riis who documented the hellishness of tenements with shocking photographs in How the Other Half Lives to change the way such buildings were constructed. While the Melting Pot nature of America is one of its most unique and celebrated aspects, the conditions also created a humanitarian crisis of sorts. In the 19th century child labor was still the norm especially for poor families and no social welfare systems were in place to provide security for people. As a result if a child was abandoned or orphaned they were at the mercy of an ad hoc system of barely tolerable orphanages with little to no centralization. Minorities and immigrants were also discriminated against on the basis of ethnicity and religion. Into this issue stepped the Children's Aid Society led by Charles Loring Brace who determined he could improve abandoned kids' futures by helping relocate them further to the West which would also help Americans settle the frontier. By coordinating with train companies, Brace was able to transport dozens of children at a time to places in the heartland of America or further out west where they would end up in new homes decades before the existence of foster care. Genealogist Roberta Lowrey, a descendant of one of these orphans, noted that the situations for many of those on the Orphan Trains were vastly different but in all the system worked. Many were used as strictly slave farm labor but there are stories, wonderful stories of children ending up in fine families that loved them, cherished them and educated them. They were so much better off than if they had been left on the streets of New York. They were just not going to survive or if they had their fate would surely have been awful. In time the success of the system led to coordination between dozens of agencies across multiple cities including Boston and Chicago helping move thousands of endangered children from the East Coast to other parts of the nation. Nearly 1 000 children were being transported a year at the height of the program which lasted into the 1920s.

We Rode the Orphan Trains Andrea Warren, 2008-08-11. Provides first hand accounts by a few of the more than 200 000 orphans who rode the Orphan Train to new homes and new lives between the years of 1854 and 1929. Reprint.

Orphan Train Riders Mary Ellen Johnson, Kay B. Hall, Orphan Train Heritage Society of America, 1992. From 1854 to 1929 about 150 000 orphans from New York City and the surrounding area were placed in homes in the Midwest and West. The children were sent out on Orphan Trains.

To Dakota and Back Judith Kappenman, 2010. This man is confused. Home is on the other side of the world back in Boston How could this be home He was just going to Dakota and back Tom said it on the train The Sister promised he wasn't going to stay here forever just help with the farm work But they lied Tom and he had the same tags on their jackets and Tom was gone In 1877 John was born to Irish immigrants in South Boston He has an older brother and younger sister But after his mother's death when John was age four he spent several years in the Home for Catholic Destitute Children Now he is to work as indentured servant until adulthood
