Women activists insist that issues such as rape, battering and reproductive control cannot be divorced from women's concerns about housing, food, land and medical care. This innovative comparative study explores six cases of women's grassroots activism in Mexico, El Salvador, Brazil and Chile. Lynn Stephen communicates the ideas, experiences and perceptions of women who participate in collective action while she explains the structural conditions and ideological discourses that set the context within which women act and interpret their experiences. She includes revealing interviews with activists, detailed histories of organizations and movements and a theoretical discussion of gender, collective identity and feminist anthropology and methods.      Low-cost Rural Health Care and Health Manpower Training Frances M. Iyioha, 2019-12-10 Despite some significant advances in the creation and protection of rights affecting women's health, these do not always translate into actual health benefits for women. This collection asks: What is an effective law and what influences law's effectiveness or ineffectiveness? What dynamics, elements and conditions come together to limit law's capacity to achieve instrumental goals for women's health and the advancement of women's health rights? The book presents an integrated co-referential and sustained critical discussion of the normative and constitutive reasons for law's limited effectiveness in the field of women's health. It offers comprehensive and cohesive explanatory accounts of law's limits and for the first time in the field introduces a distinction between formal and substantive effectiveness of laws. Its approach is trans-systemic, multi-jurisdictional and comparative with a focus on six countries in North America, Europe, Asia and Africa and international human rights case law based on matters arising from Hungary, Portugal, Spain, Slovakia, the Czech Republic, Peru and Bolivia. The book will be a valuable resource for educators, students, lawyers, rights advocates and policymakers working in women's health, socio-legal studies, human rights, feminist legal studies and legal philosophy more broadly.

Global Patient Safety John Tingle, Clayton Ó Néill, Morgan Shimwell, 2018-08-15. This book explores patient safety themes in developed, developing and transitioning countries. A foundation premise is the concept of reverse innovation as mutual learning from the chapters challenges traditional assumptions about the construction and location of knowledge. This edited collection can be seen to facilitate global learning. This book will hopefully form a bridge for those countries seeking to enhance their patient safety policies. Contributors to this book challenge many supposed generalisations about human societies including consideration of how medical care is mediated within those societies and how patient safety is assured or compromised. By introducing major theories from the developing world in the book, readers are encouraged to reflect on their impact on the patient safety and the health quality debate. The development of practical patient safety policies for wider use is also encouraged. The volume presents a ground-breaking perspective by exploring fundamental issues relating to patient safety through different academic disciplines. It develops the possibility of a new patient safety and health quality synthesis and discourse relevant to all concerned with patient safety and health quality in a global context.

Assessment of Young Developmentally Disabled Children Theodore D. Wachs, Robert Sheehan, 2013-06-29. Our knowledge of the cognitive and social/emotional functioning of developmentally disabled infants and preschoolers derives in large part from our assessment of such children. This book has been developed to familiarize readers with the characteristics of developmentally disabled children and to introduce to readers aspects of measurement that are of relevance to the assessment of atypical infants and preschoolers. The book has been developed with clinicians and prospective clinicians in mind. These are individuals who are committed to the care and education of developmentally disabled infants and preschoolers and the families of those children. The book has thus been written to provide support for the use of assessment data in planning early intervention programs. Of special note in the development of this edited book is that it is divided into four major parts with interrelated chapters in each part. The authors of chapters in Parts II and III had access to the chapters in Part I before writing their chapters. The summary chapters found in Part IV were similarly written by authors having access to all chapters in Parts I-III. This approach to the development of an edited book was chosen as a way of ensuring an integration of major concepts throughout the book. This process is also a reflection of our belief that assessment is an interdisciplinary process involving the synthesis of a number of diverse interests.
