

PH - Quiz 3

IPV:

- Danger Assessment Tool
 - o Tool used to evaluate risk of lethal violence in IPV cases
 - o Whoever is conducting the safety assessment needs to seek advanced training on risk assessment and needs to be aware of community resources.
 - o Developed by Campbell (1986), the lethality assessment tool. It is a 20-item tool available on the internet in many languages. Free to use but training is required for scoring and interpretation
 - o This often heightens a woman's awareness about her safety. Once the safety issues are identified, the healthcare provider can present intervention options to the client.
 - o There is a same sex and immigrant version
- Safety planning
 - o Personalized, practical plan that can help that can help someone avoid dangerous situations and know the best way to react when in danger
 - o Safety planning involves nurse suggestions and client choices (e.g., does the client feel she is able to keep herself safe? Does she have friends or family members who could help? Does she have a supportive employer?).
 - o Components for safety planning:
 - Crisis/disaster plan
 - A place to go
 - How to get there
 - Other considerations (e.g., if the abused victim stays and the abuser leaves, if victim and the abuser stay together, or if the victim decides to leave).
 - o Safety planning involves discussing measures that the client may not have considered. For example, if an argument occurs at home, the woman should stay away from (1) the kitchen because sharp instruments are there and (2) from the bathroom because the space is small and contains many hard surfaces. She should go to a room with a window or door, carry her cell phone with 911 set to speed dial, and tell family members and neighbors.
 - o Healthcare organizations should actively partner with local shelters and court advocates, as they can assist with safety plans.
 - o Nurses need not place pressure on themselves to take on the entire burden of safety planning for a patient, especially when it is beyond their training. The role of the healthcare provider is primarily clinical care and follow-up, discussion of the health effects of violence, referral to resources, and empathetic emotional support.
 - o First-line support includes attentive listening that is validating, and nonjudgmental provision of referrals to trusted resources for legal protection
