David A. McDonald, 2014-04-10 After three decades of privatization and anti state rhetoric government ownership and public management are back in vogue This book explores this rapidly growing trend towards corporatization public enterprises owned and operated by the state with varying degrees of autonomy If sometimes driven by neoliberal agendas there exist examples of corporatization that could herald a brighter future for equity oriented public services Drawing on original case studies from Asia Africa and Latin America this book critically examines the histories structures ideologies and social impacts of corporatization in the water and electricity sectors interrogating the extent to which it can move beyond commercial goals to deliver progressive public services The first collection of its kind Rethinking Corporatization and Public Services in the Global South offers rich empirical insight and theoretical depth into what has become one of the most important public policy shifts for essential services in the global South Philippine Development Report, 1980 The Philippines and the Republic of Korea, 1999 The Civil Service Reporter Philippines. Ministry of Local Government and Community Development,1980 Accreditation and the Global Higher Education Market Gudmund Hernes,Michaela Martin,2008 Higher education systems throughout the world in developed and developing countries are undergoing diverse types of changes that are often interrelated One of these changes is the considerable growth in the private provision of higher education over the last decade in particular within developing countries The IIEP Policy Forum identified the most recent trends and findings of trade in higher education and by discussing the international driving forces that push national governments to establish quality assurance systems for their higher education institutions and programmes Perspectives in Government Reorganization Jose Veloso Abueva,1969 Journal of the Batasan Philippines. Batasang Pambansa, Emotional Bureaucracy Rupert Hodder,2017-07-28 This study casts doubt on the classic model of bureaucracy and its relevance to developing areas In particular Hodder challenges the Weberian distinction between the role of emotion and a modern bureaucracy s impersonal and rational qualities He suggests that bureaucracies function differently and offers a different perspective The focus is the Philippines but Hodder s conclusions are applicable to other developing areas Two main themes are discussed The first explores the classic Weberian model of bureaucracy The second concerns ways of thinking about the social features of bureaucracy The focus is dimensions of bureaucracy that are less dependent upon structure What emerges is an innovative description of the social world of bureaucracy and its attributes Hodder observes that discussions with civil servants and politicians in developing countries suggest that deepening emotion a strengthening sense of the importance of social relationships and informality are vital to the emergence of professional and stable organizations Hodder believes it is possible to account for these social features of bureaucracy by understanding participants representations and practices While these ideas are discussed in the context of the Philippines they have wider relevance to other states especially those whose bureaucracies are characterized as weak and personalistic The author suggests that these characterizations and possible remedies may need to be reconsidered He argues that through informality and emotion effective and stable organizations can be built excessive formalism may exacerbate the problems that governments of developing countries are trying to solve The means to strengthen bureaucracies in developing countries are already available and rather than be ignored or suppressed need be identified and encouraged United States Government Organization Manual ,1952 Annual Report Metropolitan Waterworks & Sewerage System (Philippines),2016 The Philippine Revenue Journal ,1988 Role of Universities in Management Education for National Development in Southeast Asia Workshop on the Role of Universities in Management Education for National Development in Southeast Asia, Singapore,1972
