A. Codippily, 1996 This sixth annual study focuses on the effects of globalization on developing countries and the growing divide between fast and slow integrating economies It describes current trends in integration and answers key questions on trade and on commodity reliant economies The book examines two questions in particular detail Will trade liberalization work The report argues that countries that embark on trade liberalization in the current environment are likely to be rewarded and recognizes that genuine adjustment costs exist and that complementary reforms are important How can commodity reliant countries enhance productivity and diversify exports Although many of these countries have been among the high growth fast integrators many others have been poor performers Successful exporters are characterized by high productivity in existing commodity sectors the capacity to diversify to non traditional commodity exports and the maintenance of economic stability The report projects continued rapid acceleration of integration over the next decade with moderate import growth in the developed countries and continued sharp import increases in developing countries Those countries that continue to reform their economies and expand their participation in the world economy will be in a position to take advantage of the resulting opportunities those that do not risk falling further behind Daily Report United States.
