Anti-Cartel Enforcement in a Contemporary Age Caron Beaton-Wells, Christopher Tran, 2015-09-24 Leniency policies are seen as a revolution in contemporary anti cartel law enforcement Unique to competition law these policies are regarded as essential to detecting punishing and deterring business collusion conduct that subverts competition at national and global levels Featuring contributions from leading scholars practitioners and enforcers from around the world this book probes the almost universal adoption and zealous defence of leniency policies by many competition authorities and others. It charts the origins of and impetuses for the leniency movement, captures key insights from academic research and practical experience relating to the operation and effectiveness of leniency policies and examines leniency from the perspectives of corporate and individual applicants, advisers and authorities. The book also explores debates surrounding the intersections between leniency and other crucial elements of the enforcement system such as compensation, compliance and criminalisation. The rich critical analysis in the book draws on the disciplines of law, regulation, economics and criminology. It makes a substantial and distinctive contribution to the literature on a topic that is highly significant to a wide range of actors in the field of competition law and business regulation generally. From the Foreword by Professor Frédéric Jenny, fundamental questions are raised and thoroughly discussed in this book, which is undoubtedly the most comprehensive scholarly work on leniency policies produced so far; the book should be required reading for all seeking to acquire a deeper insight into the issues related to leniency policy. It is a priceless contribution.

Law & Investment in Africa Tina Hse Kondo, 2021-04-19

Zimbabwe has had a chaotic foreign direct investment (FDI) regime. This has created the need for a detailed volume on the most important developments around the protection and treatment of FDI at not only a domestic level but also at bilateral, regional and international levels. The author argues that while Zimbabwe has now harmonised previously scattered legislation under the Zimbabwe Investment and Development Agency Act Chapter 14:37 and taken measures to reverse to varying degrees controversial policies such as the land reform programme and the Indigenisation and Economic Empowerment Policy, scepticism still prevails over the investor friendliness of the FDI regime in Zimbabwe.

Wrecking Ball Stuart Woolman, 2021-04-29

Wrecking Ball explores in an unprecedented manner a decalogue of wicked problems that confronts humanity: Nuclear proliferation, climate change, pandemics, permanent technological unemployment, Orwellian public and private surveillance, social media that distorts reality, cyberwarfare, the fragmentation of democracies, the inability of nations to curb private power, the failure of multinational institutions to promote collaboration and the deepening of autocratic rule in countries that have never known anything but extractive institutions. Collectively or even severally, these wicked problems constitute crises that could end civilisation. Does this list frighten you or do you blithely assume that tomorrow will be just like yesterday? Wrecking Ball shows that without an inclusive system of global governance, the collective action required to solve those wicked problems falls beyond the remit of the world's 20 inclusive democracies, 50 flawed democracies and 130 extractive elitist autocracies. Flawed democracies and autocracies that already struggle to produce goods necessary for their own citizens to flourish are simply incapable of committing to international arrangements that address the existential threats posed by the decalogue of wicked problems. This then is our children's inheritance: Dystopias far far worse than the polities that we ourselves have known. What if anything can mitigate the harms that are our legacy? Wrecking Ball offers as an answer a ground-breaking analysis of South Africa's political economy. It demonstrates that this country's elitist and extractive political and economic institutions not only make resolution of ongoing domestic crises unattainable likewise they make meaningful responses to wicked problems impossible Smart people think they have all the answers Without laboring under any such illusions Martin Luther King Jr eloquently opined The arc of the moral universe is long but it bends towards justice But what will happen King would acidly ask if we continue to dawdle and simply run out of time Wrecking Ball similalry operates under no such smart pretenses and undeterred and unmatched ventures into terrains traversed by truly great political economists Smith Ricardo Marx and Keynes By knitting together what we all know to be the facts with cutting edge theory in economics sociology history and political science the book paints an unflinching portrait of where we are and where we are headed Are we ready to be honest with ourselves about the likely future of this overheated overpopulated planet

Debates in Primary Education Virginia Bower, 2020-10-19 This powerful text encourages both pre service and established teachers as well as teacher educators to engage with contemporary debates in primary education Promoting a critical approach the chapters explore a wide range of key themes including the importance of values in primary education and the imperative for a curriculum which embraces the whole range of available subjects At the same time the chapters are underpinned by a belief that children should be at the heart of all the decisions we make and that primary education should inspire a love of learning for life The book aims to support practitioners to make informed judgements and feel confident to argue their point of view with deeper theoretical knowledge and understanding thus increasing teacher agency and confidence in responding to complex educational and social dilemmas such as literacy levels and rising mental health concerns Chapters encompass both the macro aspects of primary education and more specialised debates on key topics such as reading mathematics languages early years education and the use of technology With annotated further reading and reflective questions this key text is essential reading for all those wanting to develop a better understanding of the issues that shape their practice including student teachers at both undergraduate and postgraduate level practising teachers engaged in continuing professional development and teacher educators

New Millennium Woes and Livelihood Struggles in Africa Peter Thomas, Ngonidzashe Marongwe, 2021-05-19 One of the oldest survival pursuits undertaken by the weak and the downtrodden people across the world has been begging Going back to the ancient

Christian biblical times up to the present epoch as well as across varying spatial settings in situations of trouble and tribulations parts of various communities have resorted to beggary to either overcome immediate adversities or longer term calamities Drawing on insights from two polar theoretical lenses of Social Constructionism and Social Deconstructionism and guided by a pithy study of the begging across the African continent especially by Zimbabweans this book troubles the various contours related to the subject of begging Inter alia the book considers the concept of begging the causes of the prevalence of begging across the world and particularly among Zimbabweans the challenges and benefits associated with the pursuit of alms the impact of begging in foreign lands as well as some of the strategies that beggars employ to maximize their collections and or profits What can be discerned from the book is that for many begging is one of the last resort undertakings with low pickings However from a utilitarian perspective begging has helped to sustain the impoverished livelihoods of Zimbabweans both inside and outside the borders of the country since the advent of a debilitating crisis experienced from the turn of the new millennium On the whole this book seeks to provoke further researches on an important socio economic area that affects many African communities but has so far been scantily researched The book is handy for students and practitioners in economic history African studies economics risk and disaster management social anthropology political science and development studies

The Wealth of (Some) Nations Zak Cope, 2019-03-20 In this provocative new study Zak Cope makes the case that capitalism is empirically inseparable from imperialism historically and today Using a rigorous political economic framework he lays bare the vast ongoing transfer of wealth from the poorest to the richest countries through the mechanisms of monopoly rent unequal exchange and colonial tribute The result is a polarised international class structure with a relatively rich Global North and an impoverished exploited Global South Cope makes the controversial claim that it is because of these conditions that workers in rich countries benefit from higher incomes and welfare systems with public health education pensions and social security As a result the internationalism of populations in the Global North is weakened and transnational solidarity is compromised The only way forward Cope argues is through a renewed anti imperialist politics rooted in a firm commitment to a radical labour internationalism

Carbon Conflicts and Forest Landscapes in Africa Melissa Leach, Ian Scoones, 2015-06-05 Amidst the pressing challenges of global climate change the last decade has seen a wave of forest carbon projects across the world designed to conserve and enhance forest carbon stocks in order to reduce carbon emissions from deforestation and offset emissions elsewhere Exploring a set of new empirical case studies Carbon Conflicts and Forest Landscapes in Africa examines how these projects are unfolding their effects and who is gaining and losing Situating forest carbon approaches as part of more general moves to address environmental problems by attaching market values to nature and ecosystems it examines how new projects interact with forest landscapes and their longer histories of intervention The book asks what difference does carbon make What political and ecological dynamics are unleashed by these new commodified marketized approaches and how are local forest users experiencing and responding to them The book s case studies cover a wide range of African ecologies project types and national political economic contexts By examining these cases in a comparative framework and within an understanding of the national regional and global institutional arrangements shaping forest carbon commoditisation the book provides a rich and compelling account of how and why carbon conflicts are emerging and how they might be avoided in future This book will be of interest to students of development studies environmental sciences geography economics development studies and anthropology as well as practitioners and policy makers
