Advances in Special Education Research and Praxis in Selected Countries of Africa, Caribbean and the Middle East Kagendo Mutua, Cynthia S Sunal, 2012-06-01 This edited volume explores various issues pertaining to the education of children with disabilities in Africa the Caribbean and Middle East As a group persons with disabilities have been subjected to social cultural and educational exclusions of various forms and for various socially scripted reasons In education for instance individuals with disabilities have been altogether excluded from educational participation in many parts of the developing world or they have been excluded from pursuing meaningfully beneficial higher levels of education in developed countries like the United States One of the social responses remedies to the widely acknowledged exclusionary practices experienced by learners with disabilities has been the widespread implementation of inclusive practices in the education of individuals with disabilities across countries in the west and the developing regions of the world A distinctive marker of difference in the way inclusive practices have been enacted in western countries versus those in the developing world has primarily stemmed from the fact that majority of western countries operate under funded mandates that also regulate the provision of education to persons with disabilities While the ideal of inclusion has been highly desirable many of countries in the developing world have floundered in their implementation due to lack sound legislative framework to guide implementation coupled with socio cultural factors related to negative perceptions of disabilities and limited funding sources Chapters in this volume explore inclusive education from a variety of perspectives

"Right Development" Juliana Essen, 2005-01-01 Right Development examines the Santi Asoke Buddhist Reform Movement of Thailand as a culturally and environmentally appropriate alternative to western development programs The Asoke group s aim is not a Western ideal to accumulate high levels of material comfort but a Buddhist ideal to release attachment to the material world and attain spiritual freedom Ethnographic research at one Asoke community illuminates how Asoke beliefs and practices foster development on three levels the individual community and society A closer look at a day in the life of four women provides further insight into this development This book stipulates that development must be culturally locally situated focused on livelihoods rather than economic growth environmentally sustainable and endogenously inspired implemented and maintained The intent here is not to offer a new meta strategy for global development but to underscore the need for diverse responses to the vast array of economic social and environmental dilemmas Right Development offers alternatives for sustainable development perfect for scholars of Buddhism or Thailand

A Dual Approach to Ocean Governance Yoshifumi Tanaka, 2016-03-23 Taking the North East Atlantic Ocean as an example of regional practice this book addresses the dual approach to ocean governance in international law It examines the interaction between zonal and integrated management approaches and the conservation of marine living resources and marine biological diversity The study examines the limitations of the traditional zonal approach and suggests new possibilities for conformity between sovereign states international law and sustainable development

Religion and Sustainability Lucas F. Johnston, 2014-10-20 Sustainability is now key to international and national policy manufacture and consumption It is also central to many individuals who try to lead environmentally ethical lives Historically religion has been a significant part of many visions of sustainability Pragmatically the inclusion of religious values in conservation and development efforts has facilitated relationships between people with different value structures Despite this little attention has been paid to the interdependence of sustainability and religion and no significant comparisons of religious and secular sustainability advocacy Religion and Sustainability presents the first broad analysis of the spiritual dimensions of sustainability oriented social movements Exploring the similarities and differences between the conceptions of sustainability held by religious interfaith and secular organizations the book analyses how religious practice and discourse have impacted on political ideology and process
