1. Energy

2. Energy

3. Energy

Energy resources growing in plants, animals and minerals could be used to produce electricity and power other useful machines. Energy resources include sources of energy, potential and technological capabilities that energy has for producing the electricity for other uses, while the energy conversion technology is a device, technology or technological strategy, structure and technology, through which the potential energy is converted into useful energy which is used to do work. The energy that is produced and converted is used to do work.

1. What is a renewable energy source?
