Shaw, 2020-09-05 So how exactly has the English language grown over the years? And how many people speak English today? In 2006 it was believed that there were some 400 million native speakers of English and a further 400 million people who use English as the second language. Despite this, many local dialects and catchphrases have divided the language so much so that to some English speakers the language is still confusing. With catchphrases being used so naturally in some quarters that will seem incomprehensible to others. Many catchphrases are from a local dialect and others are steeped in history. The British use catchphrases without thinking and it is generally assumed that others will get the gist and fully understand the meaning. Further to these numbers of English speakers, it is estimated that some 600-700 million people across the globe speak some English as a foreign language. So in short, that is well over a billion people in the world today can communicate in some sort of English language. These are figures from over 10 years ago, so the number might well have increased. From this, it is reasonable to assume that approximately 1.5 billion people across the world are capable of communicating in English. This book helps people to understand British Catchphrases. A must-have for people who have English as a second language.
